GORDON HEAD ROAD AND LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR—The Legislature last year ordered (vote 152) in consideration of the extra disgraceful state of above highway, a special appropriation of $500 over and exclusive, of course, its due share of the $7,500 for Victoria, E. D. But "Public Accounts," page 45, sets out $100 only, either of the special or general appropriation, as spent on this road. Can you, Mr. Editor, say if this is the usual proportion spent on Provincial roads generally out of public money voted for the purpose, and where does the remaining 80 per cent. go? If "Public Accounts" is a full and true record, was Gordon Head Road discriminated against? Some public explanation is certainly indicated, and therefore the official in charge of these matters is called on for such. RESIDENT.

THE HON. MR. ROBSON AND AN ISLAND SEAT.

MR. EDITOR:—The Colonist seems quite certain that Mr. Robson will not seek election on your island. Of course not if he can get elected on the Mainland; because four years ago when he made a speech at Vancouver he said that Mr. Orr was making a great fuss over his small bit house at James Bay, calling it a mansion; but all his interest was on the Mainland, and it was only because he was a cabinet minister that he was living at Victoria, and that when the question would come up about removing the capital from Victoria to Vancouver or New Westminster he (Mr. Robson) would vote with the Mainlanders. How could the Colonist support him for an Island constituency. ONE WHO WAS THERE.

If any dependence is to be placed in recent Massachusetts statistics, that good old state is in a fair way to experience an important but peaceful revolution. It is reported that the birth rate among the native population is 18 to the 1000, while among the foreign born it is a fraction over 55 to the 1000. On the other hand the death rate is three of the native to one of the foreign born. This, together with the well-known propensity of the more enterprising natives to "go west," will not take many years to work a marvellous change. It is doubtful whether the stock can be greatly improved.

Butchered by Natives—Fate of a Crew in the South Sea Islands—An Old Crime Brought to Light by the Unearthing of Skeletons, Etc.

LAWRENCE, Mass., May 13.—Horace A. Wadsworth, proprietor and editor of the Lawrence Daily and Weekly Eagle, and of the Daily Tribune, died suddenly this a. m. from heart disease.

An Aged Attorney.

RUTLAND, Vermont, May 13.—Hon. Reuben R. Thrall, said to be the oldest practicing attorney in the United States, died here yesterday in his ninety-fifth year.

Trade Sale.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A trade sale at auction of flannels by the order of Leland Whitney & Co., took place today, in all 13,000 cases were sold. Prices ranged from 8¼ cents per yard for dometts ¾ wide, number six, to 37½ cents for 44. Yellowstone prices were as good as was generally expected.

Another Millionaire Dead.

BARAGA, Mich., May 13.—Thomas Neston, a millionaire Michigan lumberman, died here this morning of apoplexy, aged 75 years. He was worth $4,000,000, made in pine lands. He started in as a poor lumber chopper in the woods.

Nominated for Congress.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13. — Hon. Richard Vaux was nominated for Congress to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Samuel J. Randall.

Railway Strike Ended.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 13.—A strike on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway was settled this morning, the men resumed work at ten hours per day, the concession demanded.

Butchered by Natives.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Advices just received state that in a great storm on March 4th the schooner Eliza Mary was driven on the reefs at Mallicolo in the New Hebrides. It was impossible to see anything through the blinding rain till just before the ship struck. There were on board at the time a crew of eighteen, two passengers, forty-four recruits and fifteen returning laborers, making a total of seventy-nine. The first boat which was lowered was manned by four white men and several of the black crew. This boat was dashed to pieces while going on shore and the four white men were drowned. Those who remained on board the ship were saved. Several of the recruits swam for the shore and were either drowned or killed after landing. One boy had to fight his way on shore to the mission station, a distance of ten miles. He, with twenty of his companions, went with some natives to a village near the coast. They were given food, but while eating it the savages set upon them and began tomahawking the castaways. The boy ran and escaped. In all four white men and forty-seven blacks were lost.

A Novel Experiment.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Most of the captains of sailing crafts on this coast have been notified of a novel competition, namely in the use of oil at sea. From the replies of several sailing masters it appears that considerable interest will be taken in the competition. The idea of the competition originated with the Chamber of Commerce of Bordeaux, France. Some time ago that body, desirous of encouraging the use of oil by masters of vessels, and to induce thorough trials of the recent adoption, has offered a series of prizes for the best reports, based upon actual experience, received by January 30th, 1891. It is understood that a number of tests are to be made off this coast, both in northern and southern latitudes.

Brazil Recognized.

The steamer City of New York, from Panama, brings the following advices: Colombia has formally recognized the republic of Brazil.

Order Restored.

A vigilance committee has been formed at Port Simon, Costa Rica, for the protection of life and property, most of the Indians who revolted against the government of Salvador have surrendered.

Free Medicine.

An epidemic in Guatemala has induced the government to provide gratuitous service of medicine and medical attendance for the poor.

Chased Himself.

DULUTH, Minn., May 11.—The report that W. H. Pope, the Louisville defaulting bank teller, was arrested by a detective near here is incorrect. It is believed that Pope has been around here but the officers could not get their hands on him. There is a belief that the supposed detective who chartered a special train to overtake the boat at Twin Harbors was Pope himself, in which event he is now safe in Canada.

Big Fire at Ashley.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 13.—A fire at Ashley late last night, completely destroyed five buildings as follows: Blackwells jewelry store; S. E. Wells grocery; Union Hall; Dr. James residence and office; Mr. Henigers dwelling and six or seven houses. The loss partly covered by insurance is about $60,000.

Pleasures of a Soldier's Life.

DELANO, Cal., May 13.—A Frenchman in full uniform arrived here last night on his way to Los Angelos where he claims to have friends. He says that he served twelve years in the French army at Tunis, Africa. He had some trouble with a lieutenant, whom he whipped, and made his escape on an English vessel. If had been captured he would have had to serve five years at hard labor.

A Boiler Bursts.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., May 13.—The boiler of a locomotive on the Reading railway exploded this morning, killing Engineer Heglegouz and Fireman Kuffman and fatally injuring Conductor George Yeager. The engine was nearing Shamokin drawing a heavy train, when Kuffman noticed water from the boiler leaking into the fire box. He apprised the engineer of the danger, but the boiler exploded before means could be taken to prevent it. Yeager was riding in the engine box.

DENHAM, Mass., May 13.—The Thos. Rice Paper Co. and Millesley filed today an involuntary petition in insolvency in the Norfolk County Court.

An Old Senator Dies.

TUNKHANNOCK, Pa., May 13.—Hon. P. M. Osterhout, State Senator in 1872, died here to-day, aged 90. Deceased was in the convention that nominated Fremont and Lincoln.

Both Dismissed.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Judge Murat Masterson of Arizona, and Mrs. Alice Hopkinson of 65 West 31st street, who were arrested last night on counter charges of felonious assault were arraigned in the Jefferson County Court this morning and promptly dismissed. Both refusing to testify against each other.

SKELETON UNEARTHED.

Discovery of an Old Crime—A Mystery Explained.

MARYSVILLE, CALA., May 13—Two human skeletons, believed to be those of two white men, were unearthed a few days ago in the digging on a ranch on Feather River, about midway between Marysville and Oraville. In the early days there was a noted hostelry there known as "Charley's Ranch," and the old residents recollect that in the fall of 1858 two men mysteriously disappeared at that place. They were packers, and pitched their camp a short distance above the ranch. On the evening of their arrival they drank freely, but refused to gamble. They left the hotel about midnight, and were never seen again. A few days later a noted gambler took possession of their pack animals and other effects, displaying a bill of sale of the property. The missing men were known to have had a considerable sum of money in their custody belonging to other parties, and the report was spread that they had absconded with it, but the discovery of skeletons in the spot where there was no surface indications of a grave puts the disappearance of the two men in a new light.

THE STANDARD OIL CO. FIGHT.

The Aim is to Drive the Corporation Out of Business in Ohio.

The suit begun Thursday by the State of Ohio against the Standard Oil Co., is brought mainly for the purpose of ousting the corporation from doing business in the Buckeye State.

The petition sets forth that the company was incorporated under the Ohio laws February 10th, 1870, with a capital $1,000,000 to manufacture petroleum, deal in it and its products with principal offices at Cleveland; that on two subsequent occasions its capital stock was increased until in 1882 it was $8,500,000. Up to this time it had passed the legitimate objects of its incorporation, but it was then merged with other concerns in a trust, the object of which was to control the production and price of petroleum; the parties to the agreement of trust as set forth in the petition are divided into three classes, first corporations, second individuals, and third portions of corporations and partnerships. The parties to the agreement elected nine trustees, to whom they conveyed all their interests and property, real and personal. The trustees assumed control and management of the entire interests of the trusts. It is claimed on the part of the State that by entering into this trust agreement, the Standard Oil Company surrendered its property to nine trustees and was party to the formation of a trust which is injurious to trade and commerce.

The petition is very long but stripped of its legal verbiage is as follows: That by entering into an agreement with other corporations, the Standard Oil Company vested all its property in care of the trustees of the trust and thus annulled its corporate right conferred upon it by the State of Ohio. Attorney-General Watson says he was not instigated to bring the suit by any other oil dealers.

The Deceased Wife's Sister bill, which was passed by the British House of Commons last week, is no stranger in Westminster. It made its first appearance in the House of Lords in 1841, and since then the Commons have on eighty occasions passed resolutions in its favor, only to have them negatived by the Peers. The promoters of the reform can be congratulated at least upon their persistence.

It is not strange that Bonny, the man whom Stanley left in charge of the rear guard at Yambouya, should paint the great explorer as autocratic, selfish and unscrupulous. The trouble with Bonny was that he proved incompetent, and Stanley has no patience with officers who fail to equal his expectations of them. It is probable that when he returned after the terrible journey through the Amwimi forest and found the greater part of the force dead or incapacitated he soundly rated Bonny for permitting the rear guard to fail to pieces, and it is this rebuke which has caused Bonny's wrath. The great explorer is not an easy man to deal with, but no efficient officer has ever accused him of injustice.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

SIR FREDK. MIDDLETON MUST PAY OR QUIT.

Parliament's Censure of Middleton Generally Approved—Death of Adam Hudspeth, M.P.—The Republic of Brazil Recognized.

LONDON, May 11.—The cheerful cynic George Francis Train embarked safely on the Etruria for New York to-day, a goodly company of admiring Americans being present to wish him bon voyage. The papers devote a good deal of space to Mr. Train, but seem quite puzzled as to his proper classification, whether among the geniuses or cranks of America. The former rating is insisted on by some writers who remember him as a brilliant inventor and orator of days gone by, and who remind us that we are indebted to him for our train car, while less favorable comment is made by others. They also cannot convince themselves that the genial philosopher's expressions of anarchistic sentiments should be condoned. All agree, at least, that in his present enterprise he is likely to succeed in beating all previous records.

Cotton Exchange Closed.

LIVERPOOL, May 13.—During the Whitside holidays, Saturday, May 24th, Monday, May 26th, and Tuesday, May 27th, the Cotton Exchange will be closed.

Merit Rewarded.

BERLIN, May 13.—It is given out that Lieut. Gravenreuth, who distinguished himself by defeating Chief Bushiri and by other important services under Major Wissman will soon be appointed to an important German post in West Africa.

Burned to Death.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., May 13.—A small frame house occupied by Mrs. Catharine Soules, a lady 60 years of age, and her grandson, Wm. Wynn, aged 15, was burned early this morning, and the two occupants burned to death. The grandmother was bedridden and the boy lost his life trying to save her.

Naval Officers Sentenced.

BERLIN, May 13.—Naval officers Warnehold, Haspelmuth and Leubky have been respectively sentenced to thirty, twenty-seven and one month's imprisonment. The officers were found guilty of having accepted bribery from the contractors for passing naval stores.

Lindy Captured by the Germans.

BERLIN, May, 13.—The German expeditionary force under the command of Major Weissman bombarded and captured the town of Lindy on the southern coast of Lienquebar.

SAMOAN TREATY RATIFIED.

The Chiefs of the Cocoanut Islands Reach an Understanding.

APIA, Samoa, April 22 (via San Francisco, May 10.)—A meeting of the chiefs and rulers of Samoa was held April 16 to consider the treaty adopted by the Berlin conference last year. Representatives of every district in Samoa were present. A number of chiefs made speeches the general tenor of which was that all differences growing out of the late war should be forgotten and all parties should unite for the common good of the country.

The only incident worthy of note was caused by the speech of Lemana, one of the chiefs in Tamasese's party. He declared that Mataafa had been too hasty in attacking them in September, 1888, while they were deliberating whether they should join Mataafa.

Mataafa, who was seated along with King Malietoa, said to the King that Lemana's statements wasn't true and that he had sent six letters to the other party before attacking. Mataafa then withdrew from the conference.

The treaty was then read and Malietoa addressed the chiefs. He expressed his thanks to the great powers for the trouble they had taken in preparing the treaty. He desired that the late war should be forgotten and that peace should continue to reign in Samoa. The meeting then adjourned until the afternoon when all the chiefs assented to arrangements to meet the three consuls on April 19 and sign the treaty.

When the day arrived, a great number of native and almost the entire white population of Apia were present, and wonderful interest was manifested in the event. The King and the three consuls gathered around the table in the King's house, on which a copy of the treaty was placed. The certificate was read and translated, and then handed to Malietoa, who signed it. The consuls then attached their signatures.

POLITICS AT HONOLULU.

The King of the Sandwich Islands and Attorney-General Ashford.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—From a letter from Honolulu, dated May 3d, the following is taken: War clouds settle on the horizon every twenty-four hours only to be moved on by the peaceful breezes which blow from more conservative quarters. Take the white population and one-half of them will tell you that war is sure to follow the convening of the legislature on May 21st, while the other half will whisper that there is not the slightest danger of anything of the kind occurring.

There was a rumor a few days ago that certain individuals would make an attempt to gain possession of guns and ammunition now kept in the station house, and Marshal Saper went quietly about and stationed extra guards over the property, by which action he thinks he has prevented the consummation of the plans of the evilly disposed.

Next to rumors of a conflict the question uppermost in the minds of the people is a treaty with the United States. Attorney-General Ashford for certain reasons advised the King not to sign the authorization and he acted upon the advice given and withheld his signature, notwithstanding the majority of the cabinet were in favor of it. During the King's absence last week a majority submitted the matter to the judges of the Supreme Court for their opinion, which was to the effect that a majority of the ministry constituted the cabinet. On the King's return on Tuesday he called a meeting of the ministry and the opinion of the Supreme Court was shown him, but in the face of this report Ashford again advised the King not to sign, and the matter has now been left to the action of the legislature.

From information which your correspondent gathered during a recent trip among the islands it is evident that the natives and others are tired of Ashford and he will be probably the first of the cabinet to retire to private life. He made an exhaustive study of Canadian affairs, and it is thought he may have made some promises to that government regarding a treaty which might, if he were to advocate the new treaty with the United States, place him in rather an embarrassing situation.

HUDSPETH EULOGIZED.

The Premier Refers to His Death—Work Done by the House.

(Special to the TIMES.)

OTTAWA, May 13.—Sir John Macdonald referred in a touching manner to the death of Hudspeth in the House to-day, and was followed by Blake and Barron, the latter being his colleague for the county of Victoria. The House then went to work in earnest and cleared off several bills from the order paper.

MIDDLETON CENSURED.

He has Either to Pay for Annexed Furs or Resign.

(Special to the TIMES.)

OTTAWA, May 13.—General Middleton has been notified that he will either have to pay Bremner for the loss of his furs, or else resign. Middleton is now in Toronto. The censure passed upon Middleton by parliament is generally approved of here.

OTTAWA, May 13.—Adam Hudspeth, M. P. for South Victoria, died at his home in Lindsay yesterday afternoon. He left here on Saturday, after paring with Mr. Barron for the balace of the session. Deceased was ill for some time past, but his death was unexpected.

In reply to Mr. Earle, Hon. Mr. Foster said there would not be time to rebuild a vessel in British Columbia to take the place of the Sir James Douglas, and accordingly one would be purchased in the British market.

ANCIENT FEET.

They Were Much Larger than the Modern Ones.

A noticeable thing about the statues found in our museums of art, supposed to represent the perfect figures of ancient men and women, is the apparently disproportionate size of their feet. We moderns are apt to pronounce them too large, particularly those of the females. It will be found, however, that for symmetrical perfection those feet could not be better. A Greek sculptor would not think of such a thing as putting a nine-inch foot on a five and one-half foot woman. Their types for these classical marble figures were taken from the most perfect forms of living persons. Unquestionably the human foot as represented by sculptors, was larger than the modern one, and, in fact, the primitive foot of all people of whom we have any record, either in painting or statuary, was considerably larger than the restricted foot of modern times. The masculine foot, forming an approximate average of four different countries, was about twelve inches long. This would require at least 12 or 12½ shoe to cover it comfortably. The average masculine foot to-day is easily fitted with a No. 8¼ shoe, and is, therefore, not above ten and seven-sixteenths inches. Now, by the old scripture rule of proportion, a man five feet nine inches in height should have a foot eleven and one-half inches long, or one-sixth his height. It was of no great consequence what size sandals he wore, but he would have required a modern shoe of at least a No. 10½ for a minimum fit or a No. 11 for real comfort. For women, allowing for the difference in the relative sizes of the two sexes, which was about the same then as now, a woman of five feet, three inches in height would have had a foot ten inches long, requiring a modern shoe—it ought to be spoken only in a whisper—No. 6 as the most comfortable for that foot, or a No. 8½, as the limit of torture. The reason for the difference between the old classic foot and the modern one is obvious. Restriction has done it.

The most prominent experts in dogs in America are firm in the belief that thoroughbred dogs are less intelligent than mongrels. Nearly all the dogs exhibited on the stage are cross-breeds and dogs of low lineage, if they can boast known parentage at all. Dogs that turn somersaults, walk on their fore legs, jump through hoops, waltz, sing and perform other standard tricks, are never crossed with a strain of thoroughbred blood. So, too, the dogs which are most thoroughly admired and cared for in private life are apt to be lowly born. Aristocratic dogs, like the aristocrats of the human species, are often distinguished by a plentiful lack of brain.

Wolseley on the Condition of the British Army—Partition of Territorial Possessions in Africa May Cause Friction Between Powers Interested.

LONDON, May 11.—The license question engrosses the British public almost to the exclusion of every other subject. It agitates the whole kingdom, for nearly every Englishman is more or less affected by it. Heretofore the licensing of the public houses has been in the hands of the magistrates, and that means the gentry and the squirearchy. It is now proposed to confer the power of granting licenses on the county and municipal councils, and it is also proposed to admit the inhabitants of each parish to vote as to whether licenses shall or shall not be granted, a two-thirds vote being required to prevent the licrnse being issued. This means local option. At present the only places in England where liquor selling is prohibited is in a few factory towns where the owners refuse to permit its sale; for instance, the Pease family, at Middleborough, own a large part of the town and prohibit the sale of liquor or beer within their own bounds and prevent it as much as possible among the rest of the community. The Government proposes in a bill presented by the ministry to permit the licensing authority to grant compensation where a license is not renewed. One reason for this is that beer houses are largely the property of or maintained by brewers, the occupants being merely agents for the brewers. The latter, of course, are subjected to loss when the license is denied. This powerful trade acts a rule with the Conservatives. Again the plan for compensation is highly satisfactory to all the beer and liquor trade whose members prove their deep interest by an attendance seldom equalled at the debates in the Commons. The local option amendment for which Churchill is responsible arouses the strongest opposition heard of before in England as being inconsistent with the constitution of the United Kingdom. Exactly how or why it is inconsistent is not explained and this feature stands little chance of being accepted in England for some time to come.

The discussion has brought out interesting facts in connection with the beer houses and their influence on public morality. It is asserted that the British beer house is a failure so far as diminishing the consumption of ardent spirits or improving the quality of the beer is concerned. Mr. Ritchie, M. P., declared that he is familiar with the issues ruling the large community in the east end of London. He can assert with the utmost confidence that the habit of excessive drinking is at the root of all crime and pauperism. He agrees, however, that there is a smaller amount of drunkenness than there was thirty years ago.

Viscount Wolseley asserts that the British army was never in a more efficient condition than it is to-day, and the soldiers are as good physically and mentally as they have been at any time in England's history. He speaks of the English army at home as simply a grand depot for recruits, where the raw young man is taken into the army and fully trained and then sent to one of the various stations maintained in all parts of the world by England. He declares it is an absurdity for England to think of contending in numbers with the armies of foreign states; that the navy of Great Britain ought to be the greatest and most powerful in the world, and behind the navy should be a small, well-trained army to garrison and protect ports and coaling stations abroad. The Viscount laughs at the idea, however, that Great Britain would be forced to succumb even in the event of disaster to her navy. He maintains there is always a considerable amount of provisions in the country and that no blockade could be so efficient as to prevent America from sending supplies.

This hint of dependence on America in time of need does not prevent England from straining every nerve to retain the lion's share of South American commerce, and mercantile circles are rejoicing over the idea that the recent Pan American congress was a failure so far as concerns extending the trade of the United States with South America. Notwithstanding the unprecedented expenditure of the Government in the Irish land purchase scheme, additional subsidies are proposed for South American steamship lines, for although England has no foothold in that region, except in Guinea, Great Britain has almost a monopoly of the commercial traffic, which, altogether, is estimated to be more profitable to this country than that of any of her possessions. English investors are grasping eagerly the stock of the Grace-Peruvian syndicate, which will virtually control that republic as Meiggs once controlled it and will have within its embrace the yet unexplored resources of the land of Incas. As to Chili the foreign trade of that prosperous republic is almost entirely English, and the same may be said of the Argentine states and Brazil.

A congress of those European powers which have territorial possessions in Africa is rapidly becoming a necessity, if serious complications and troubles are to be avoided. There are all the elements of a great outbreak in the seizure and parceling out of the territory which is going on in that country, often in defiance of district lines of limitations and treaty obligations. Some of these conflicts in interest have undoubtedly arisen out of the imperfect maps, which leave important lines of divisions in questions, but they are too frequently traceable to a spirit of aggression which threatens mischief. The friction which lately arose between England and Portugal was only an illustration of what may occur at any moment between other powers. The policy of Germany is in fresh hands. Bismarck was known to be adverse to doing anything that would tend to interfere with English interests in East Africa, but his successor, General Von Caprivi, is not so favorably disposed towards maintaining intact the agreement of 1887. Hence the new expedition of which Emin Pasha is in charge renders more necessary than ever that there should be a clear understanding as to the precise boundaries of British and German territories if serious trouble is to be avoided. England's recent trouble with Portugal and present uncertainty as to the intentions of Germany clearly show the need of a better understanding than now exists between all the powers interested in this partition of the dark continent which is being carried out by methods more or less dangerous and aggressive.

It can no longer be doubted that active preparations for the general elections are now in progress. The conservative organizers received the "tip" a few weeks ago and the first use they made of it was to circulate some hundreds of thousands of leaflets on the Parnell commission's report—headed, "Found Guilty." This is followed by other literature of the same kind. The liberals are busy selecting candidates by means of new committees and stimulating local organizations to greater activity. Even if the appeal does not come this year it will next, so that the time for necessary preliminary work is short. The political committee of the National Liberal club is also active, and are taking steps to obtain a list of members who are willing to do canvas work, lend vehicles and speak in London or elsewhere.

It is learned that the Archbishop of Canterbury has written his judgment in the case of the Bishop of Lincoln. It is rumored the judgment is against the use of the altar light, but that it declines to deal with the question of making the sign of the cross in the act of blessing or the question of absolution, these being purely personal acts not authorized or forbidden by the Book of Common Prayer.

Reformers in parliament press and urge the demolition of Kensington palace on the ground that it is unsightly and useless, occupying valuable space and only affording house room to certain royal pensioners and hangers-on. There is always a revival of this sort of language when a vote for the repair of palaces comes up in the estimates, but those who indulge in it are perhaps unaware that the Prince of Wales has resolved if he ever has to choose between the two, to inhabit Kensington and turn Buckingham palace into a museum or public gallery. If he lives to carry out this intention it will convert "old courts suburb" into the very center of fashionable London.

The works of the Standard and Venture Powder and Dynamite manufactories, situated near Brockville, exploded on Sunday. Where the works stood is a hole in which a good sized house could be placed out of sight. No one was hurt. Loss, $10,000.

At five o'clock Monday morning fire broke out in a small dwelling occupied by a family named Wynn in Campbellford, Ont. A thirteen year old boy named William Wynn went upstairs and attempted to save his grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Soules, who was eighty years of age and helpless, when he was overtaken by the flames and both perished.

The factory belonging to the Alexandria Furniture Company was burned Monday.

Hon. Owen McInerney, member of the Legislative Council of New Brunswick, died on Friday at his home. There are now six vacancies in the Legislative Council.

Napoleon Carver of Roscomb, Ont., has fallen heir to $80,000 by the death of a relative in England.

The North Oxford Reformers have unanimously nominated Premier Mowat for the legislature. Hon. A. S. Pardy has again been chosen as the candidate for South Brant.

McGill College and Greenwich were placed in telegraph communication with each other on Monday by the outer lines of the Commercial Cable and the Canadian Pacific Railway's and the observations here showed that the time occupied in transmitting signals 3,500 miles was three-quarters of a second. Further tests are to be made between Greenwich and Vancouver, B. C., with a view of correcting time and fixing the longtitude between Pacific Coast points.

A. H. Pettit, of Grimsby, Ont., one of the leading Conservatives of the county and a very strong man is out in opposition to Rykert. It is generally understood that the Reformers will not place a candidate in the field. The Equal Righters have decided to take no action.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The steamer China brought the following advices:

Rice is still very high in Japan. There have been serious disturbances in Niigutukten in consequence. On April 18, a mob of some 5000 of the poorer classes demolished five merchants' houses.

Heavy rains have caused the rivers in Japan to raise from five to ten feet above their ordinary height. The main bridges and embankments have been washed away and a large number of houses flooded.

Typhoid fever is again prevalent in Tokio. The average number of cases daily is ten.

The stringency in the Japanese money market still continues.

No clue appears to have been discovered to the late Mr. Large's murderers, although several men are still in custody.

The steamer Ulysses from Yokohama for London has gone ashore, and will probably be a total wreck. Her passengers and crew were saved.

Japan is still sending emigrants to Hawaii, 1000 of whom will leave on the 9th instant.

UNEXAMPLED FORBEARANCE.

A Young Couple Quarrel Over a Matter of Vital Importance.

"Mabel," said the young husband, as a vague thrill of horror passed through his frame, "surely you are not in earnest! Tell me you are only jesting!"

Only three months had passed since Rodney Algernon McPelt had led Mabel Washabaugh to the altar. Only three short months before had her heart swelled with joy and pride and her nose glistened with the delicate shade of cold pink usually worn there by young brides, as she took the solemn vows that bound her to the manly and devoted youth by her side.

And a cloud had already risen upon the horizon of their married life.

Surrounded by all that wealth and art, guided by the tenderest affection, could do to make existence a perpetual joy, with an elegant home in one of the loveliest suburbs of the western metropolis, Mabel Washabaugh McPelt had chosen to antagonize her husband in a matter of vital importance, involving at once his civic pride and his self respect as a man.

"I am in earnest," she said, coldly, in answer to his excited query. "I am not jesting, Rodney."

"Mabel," he exclaimed, as he sunk nervelessly into a chair and drummed on the table with trembling fingers, "tell me! Have—have you any Missouri blood in your veins?"

The young wife scorned to make reply.

"Think once again, Mabel!" he said, wildly. "Knowing, as you do, the utter inadequacy, the secluded location, the miserable climate and absolute deadness of that forlorn old town"——

"It's useless, Rodney," replied she with a careless yawn, "I don't care a fig for the World's fair. I repeat it, I would just as lief see it go to St. Louis as anywhere else in the world."

With an ashen face Rodney Algernon McPelt left the presence of his wife. His jaw was firmly set, his eyes blazed with the fire of a determined purpose, and his features worked convulsively.

Does the reader suppose that this young husband rushed off to a lawyer's office, and, burning with just indignation, instituted proceedings for divorce?

He did not. He simply had his misguided wife sent to an insane asylum.—Chicago Tribune.

Somewhat Sarcastic.

"No."

He toddled into the next room, when with a rush Master Willie was gone, and then the searcher announced, with quivering lip, to his mother: "I daw 'oo ears is sleepy."—New York World.

Lampton's Lame Logic.

Our friend and townsman, Mr. Will J. When he awoke and learned where he was, he called the brakeman, had the seat turned over, and, curling down for another snooze, said to the brakeman:

"Now, be sure to wake me when I get back to my station."—Washington Post.

Perhaps a maid of Astrakhan,
Once favorite of some swart sultan;
Perhaps some truculent pasha's child
Or "fond gazelle" of chieftain wild,
Torn from his tent by shouting foes
And sold to slavery and to woes
Now wrapped in misty clouds of veil
She advertises goods for sale,
And gaping idlers stand and stare
Into her window prison there.

O, soft eyed Maid of Astrakhan,
Tis while these curious crowds you scan
What strange emotions swell your heart,
What sweet thoughts in your memory start
Dream you of courts where bulbuls sing
And heavy odored blossoms spring;
Where by some plashing fountain you,
The sultan's slave, yet monarch, too,
Enmeshed the sultan's heart with snare
Wrought of those strands of midnight hair
Or dream you or some wild countree
Where childhood's days ran bounding, free
As its own brooks that down the steep
Of frowning mountain seaward leap?
Of some young goatherd, Hafiz, there,
Who sung the glory of your hair,
Who dubbed you in his prattling rhymes
His bulbul, date tree, rose, at times?

The little maid of Astrakhan
In wonder at me gazes.
Her eastern ear can't understand
My uncouth Yankee phrases.
But see! She parts her lips to speak—
O, shade of Hafiz gray!
Between twin rosebuds this slips out:
"Phwat the divil's that you say?"

"Yes, ma'am," was the boy's ambiguous reply, "and father, too."—Somerville Journal.

Forty Days to Cure an Egg.

The Egyptian eggs are very small and their chickens are not half the size of ours. The Chinese are the greatest fowl-raisers in the world, and they rank high among the egg-eating nations. They never eat an egg unless it be boiled hard or pickled, and the Chinese preserved eggs are one of the beauties of their gastronomy. It takes forty days to cure an egg properly. It is not fit to eat before that age and after that the older the better. Lime, salt and vinegar are mixed together in the pickling and the egg, when ready for use, is as black as coal. The Coreans are also egg-eaters and I found many of the Japanese who like their eggs raw.—F. G. Carpenter, in Philadelphia Press.

Sir Morell Mackenzie is hurling words of mingled vitriol, salt and vinegar at the many distinguished doctors of Europe who contend that leprosy is not contagious. Leprosy was stamped out of Europe by recognizing its contagious nature and isolating those afflicted with it, the doctor says. It has now made its appearance again and is spreading alarmingly, simply through non-recognition of its contagion.

The Philadelphia board of health have recommended citizens of that place to boil both milk and water twenty minutes before drinking them. If Philadelphia milk is like that supplied to most cities, it will be sufficient to boil the water alone.

The story that the pope was to establish a vast banking business in the United States, with a capital of a hundred millions, was a very wild yarn indeed. The venerable Archbishop Purcell, of Cincinnati, undertook a banking business for his parishioners a quarter of a century ago. Widows, servant girls, washerwomen, grocers and milkmen deposited their savings with the archbishop for years, with no thought but that they were as safe as if laid up in the kingdom of heaven. Result: A failure for $7,000,000, a great storm, needy depositors and legal complications that have not yet been settled and never will be.

It would be a strange outcome if the troubles between the British and French-Canadians should result in war between France and England. The French-Canadians have appealed to France to interfere in their behalf with England. France thereupon determined to examine the terms of the original treaty by which French Canada was ceded to England, and find whether Great Britain has violated those terms in any respect. This would be foreign intervention into the affairs of the British government.

Edgar Saltus is perhaps not the leader, but he is certainly the first lieutenant, of the American school of fleshly novelists. His most famous novel of this order is "The Pace That Kills." Mr. Saltus' wife has applied for a divorce from him. This is perhaps well. Geniuses who write novels like those of Mr. Saltus are not adapted to domestic life. They should be left free to indulge their fancies.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

LULU ISLAND, B.C., May 3rd, 1890.

C. G. BALLESTYNE, Esq.,
Secretary B. C. Fire Insurance Co.,

DEAR SIR,—Your favor of the 25th ult., containing your Company's cheque for $300 to hand.

The promptness with which my case has been attended to and this payment made is certainly highly commendatory to the officers of your Company, and I assure you it has gone a long way in ameliorating the annoying circumstances following the destruction of my house by fire. Wishing the Company all prosperity and tendering my sincere thanks for such prompt payment, I remain

Yours truly,

my12-1t-d-w THOMAS KIDD.

HAVING THIS DAY DISPOSED OF THE Stock in Trade and Good Will of my business to Messrs. Cowan and Wilson, I take this opportunity of thanking you for the liberal patronage with which you have favored me for many years, and I respectfully ask for a continuance of the same to my successors, whom I can confidently recommend to your favorable consideration. I am assuming all the liabilities and collecting all the debts connected with the late business.

S. J. PITTS.

Victoria, B. C., May 10th, 1890. my12

Referring to the above announcement, we respectfully ask for a continuance of the patronage with which you have favored Mr. S. J. Pitts in the past. We assure you that any orders you may entrust us with will receive our prompt and careful attention, and that our aim will be to merit your confidence and support.

THE ELECTIONS.

"In view of the elections not being, probably, more than two months off," says the Columbian, "it is about time that we were beginning to organize and select our candidates for this part of the province."

As the Government programme distinctly conveys the impression that it is their desire that the personnel of the House be maintained, the failure of the Columbian to mention possible candidates outside of the Mainland Association would seem to show that the Premier is still seeking, and that despite the assertions of the Colonist, the disgust which was aroused anent the Constitution Act has by no means subsided. It would be singular, indeed, if it had. In the event of the Premier's candidature for the Lower Fraser how would it be possible for the Columbian and News to support him. But, urges the Colonist, the sweet privilege of having a member in the cabinet will probably overcome Mainland disgust for the gentleman who betrayed it? Having a member in the cabinet is a privilege more nominal than real. It has no value that we can see beyond the mere name of the thing. What more can a member of the cabinet do for his constituents, if Government is honestly administered, than any other member of the House? The cabinet, as we understand it, is the embodiment only of the executive function. In the event of its discriminating in favor of the respective constituences which it represents, it very properly evokes the condemnation of other localities.

If the Lower Fraser should support the Premier merely that it might be represented in the cabinet, it would stultify itself on the altar of vanity, and at the same time advertise to the world that out of all of its several thousand voters not one was fit for a cabinet officer. Will the Colonist presume to say that the quintette are the only men in the Province fit for cabinet positions? Will the Colonist insist that the electorate of this Province must continue to endorse these barnacles on the ship of state principally for the reason that there are no others to take their places? Is cabinet timber so scarce in the Province as this? Might not a grocer's clerk guess as shrewdly as did the Finance Minister in the matter of provincial revenue? Might not any man who can read and write frame laws for this Province copied from the laws of Ontario and the Dominion generally? Is there a carpenter in the whole province who would not have had better sense than to accept the North Arm bridge? Is there a man in this Province whose moral perceptions are so blunt that he would betray his constituents contrary to his private convictions, and especially when there was a way to escape any embarrassment by going to the country? If this Province is wanting of the material to replace the present cabinet, it should go out of politics altogether, hang its harp on a willow tree, and petition for a king. The Mainland will support the Hon. JOHN ROBSON that it may be represented in the Cabinet. The sooner the people of the Mainland, or of any other portion of this Province, learn that it is representation at large, and not cabinets, that constitute government, the sooner will their complaints be reduced to a minimum.

DEADLY FIREARMS.

The German army is to be armed at once with a new small calibre repeating rifle. This new arm has a range of 12,500 feet, and it combines unequalled power of penetration with sureness of aim. As an instance of its penetrative power, at a distance of 325 feet the bullet penetrates well-seasoned, close-grained firwood to the depth of thirty-two inches; at a distance of 1300 feet, to the depth of eighteen inches; at a distance of 2700 feet, to a depth of ten inches: A brick wall, unless unusually thick, affords no protection against shot from the new gun. Earth breastworks less than two and a half feet thick are also penetrable. In freshly piled sand, at a distance of 325 feet, the ball sinks three feet, at a distance of 1300 feet, twenty inches; at a distance of 2700 feet, fourteen inches; at a distance of 5800 feet, four inches. At a distance of 500 feet the new gun is almost absolutely accurate. It is a sure shot at a single kneeling man 1100 feet away, or at two men kneeling side by side 1000 feet away, or at two men side by side 2000 feet away. It is supposed that the introduction of this rifle will completely revolutionize the conditions of modern warfare. With a penetrative power so great that a tree affords no protection, of what avail will be ordinary earthworks? It is estimated that six men in column, each seven paces from the man before him, may be shot through with one bullet. Under conditions of this kind modern infantry tactics will be revolutionized; skirmishers will take the place of the ordinary line of battle; the stand up and give-and-take system will prove too murderous for flesh and blood to stand. It is not to be supposed, however, that the loss of life on the modern battle-field will be any greater than in past times. With all the improvements in modern firearms, the casualities on battle-fields have steadily decreased with the growth of the century. More men fell at Waterloo in eight hours than at Gettysburg in three days. As rapidity of fire and length of range increases, the combatants fight at greater distances from each other, and with increased space between the opposing forces, the chance of getting hit is proportionately lessened. Twelve thousand five hundred feet is over four thousand yards. What does a man look like at that distance? or for that matter, what does a man look like at one thousand yards? Of course, if troops are formed in column, and charge as the French cavalry did at Waterloo, and Pickett's infantry at Gettysburg, they will be annihilated. But they will do nothing of the kind. They will stand off and bang away at each other at long range for days, and the army with most endurance will win. Improved arms will in no sense act as a deterrent to war. It is the cost of carrying on war, and not the probability of loss of life which is the real deterrent. The European nations, already heavily burdened with debts, are unwilling to aggravate the situation. It might result in somebody losing his crown.

HOW IT IS DONE IN BOSTON.

The latest contribution to the settlement of the conflict between capital and labor comes from the State of Massachusetts, and, according to the Post-Intelligencer, "it seems to afford an effectual guarantee that a strike on the one hand and a lockout on the other shall never hereafter take place. It is in the shape of a compact between the Journeymen's Progressive Stonecutters' Association of Boston on the one hand and the Freestone Contractors' Association of New England on the other.

"By the terms of this compact, which is declared to be perpetual, it is agreed that all matters of mutual interest to employers and employed shall be submitted to a standing committee of six, three to be selected by each association, to be elected annually. At their annual meeting this committee shall fix the rate of wages, the hours of labor for the ensuing year, and adopt a code of rules which shall be observed by both sides.

"If it shall happen that a majority of this committee cannot agree on any point, an arbitrator is to be chosen—preferably a judge of one of the higher New England courts, who shall be in no way an interested party, whose decision shall be final and binding. Even in cases where a majority may agree, a protest from the minority shall command the right to arbitration on the decision protested against.

"It would seem, comments the Post-Intelligencer, that this simple method is adequate to the peaceful settlement of all difficulties or controversies the parties to which are disposed to be just and fair. But as a result of its general adoption the occupation of the professional agitator and of the walking delegate would be gone, and naturally any settlement so sensible and so well calculated to promote mutual and good feeling and benefits will be strenuously opposed by these classes. As they neither work nor employ workmen, this or any other amicable arrangement has 'nothing in it for them.'"

THE AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION ACT.

The Colonist this morning says that the present election is a very important one for Victoria. We quite agree with this assertion. The ROBSON Government and their immediate predecessors having proved themselves traitors to the true interests of Victoria and the Province generally, should be swept from power by a decisive majority. The twaddle the organ writes about what it calls the Redistribution Bill, and Mr. BEAVEN and Mr. GRANT's action thereon would be amusing if it was not positively wicked in its efforts to create sectional jealousy between the Island and Mainland portions of the Province. The amendment to the Constitution Act of last session passed by the ROBSON Government, and which the organ calls a Redistribution Bill, should be of itself sufficient to condemn its promoters and supporters.

Mr. ROBSON, upon assuming the Premiership, announced as his policy a redistribution of the members in the Legislative Assembly; he did not advocate then, or at the time the Legislative session began, any increase in the total number of the members, but simply a redistribution of the twenty-seven members. At the close of a session of three months duration the Government brought down an amendment to the Constitution Act, adding six members to the Legislature, and carried it through with the aid of their automaton supporters. Redistribution was not attempted or thought of in the measure. The Act itself was simply a bungle and disgrace; the representation was not based upon any principle; neither population, fixed interests, area, wealth, or any other known principle, or system of representation was adopted, one constituency with 1700 voters having the same representation as a constituency with less than 100 on the roll. Was ever a more mischievous measure introduced or one more designed to stir up strife and discord? And yet the Government organ expected intelligent human beings to support it. There was no attempt made to prove that twenty-seven members were insufficient to represent the population in the Legislature, or that thirty-three were enough. The whole bill was on a par with every other administrative act of the present Government. They had by means of a caucus found out that they could carry it through the Legislature, and that was all they cared about. Mr. BEAVEN, Mr. GRANT, and the other members of the opposition very properly opposed it, as any other intelligent person would have done to any measure not founded upon principle, common sense, or justice, but solely upon political expediency. The mischievous effort of the Government to stir up sectional feeling between the Island and the Mainland upon this measure should be frowned down by every true friend of Victoria and the Province. Nothing would be more injurious to our fair city's interests than to create such an issue. Victoria prospers when the Mainland prospers, and is depressed when other portions of the Province do not prosper. But this Constitution Act of the ROBSON Government has been the means of creating sectional jealousy, and should as such, condemn its promoters and supporters.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The course of nature is slowly, but surely removing the legislative council of New Brunswick. With the death of the Hon. Owen McInerney, which occurred yesterday, six vacancies are created in the upper chamber. It being an appointed body and the Government and popular assembly determined on effecting its removal, there is no course open to the surviving legislative councillors, but to watch the hand of time work out the behests of their constitutional enemies. When the assembly passed measures to put the council to death "my lords" of the upper chamber put their feet down on it and trampled upon it and cast it out from them. But the enemy has a mortal cinch on them now.

The following from the Columbian, although the TIMES is given a fling, is just simply too good to be kept. The TIMES can stand a sarcastic allusion to "elegant" at the sight of a former antagonist piping as it has piped:

"This latter (having reference to the actions of the Government) appears to be the policy decided on for and by the Hon. Attorney-General. Fearing, evidently, that he cannot hold the field in Victoria City against the "smokeless powder" of public criticism and the storm of ballots from the "free and independent," the redoubtable "Theo." to quote our elegant contemporary the TIMES, has concluded that prudence is the better part of valor and is going into the fray "behind the ammunition wagon," so to speak; he hopes to capture the easy rural constituency of Cowichan. To use a chess metaphor, which is germain to that of the battle-field, the Attorney-General "hasn't got sand enough to play the queen, but hopes to hobble back into his coveted position by a sort of sidelong knight's movement. If the people of Cowichan haven't got a better man, we wish the Attorney-General success in his chosen gambit.

"There is not a little speculation as to the part of the field in which the veteran commander-in-chief, the Hon. Premier, intends to "hoist his ebenezer." It is variously rumored that the favored ground will be Vancouver City, Westminster District, one of the Kootenales, and Comox or even "Trial Island" are darkly hinted at. But the Premier keeps his own counsel. To mix metaphors again, while he runs his practised eye over the "board," he undoubtedly "thinks a great deal," if he doesn't say much. Just at present the astute leader is on a sort of "bishop's" tour through the country, his ostensible objective point being Donald. He will probably knock over a few "pawns" before he gets back, and further his general plan of attack."

TRAIN'S TORRENT OF WORDS.

It Tells the Cockneys of His Travels and Makes Them Weary.

LONDON, May 11.—George Francis Train, who arrived here yesterday, gives the following account of his trip around the world: "I have been fifty-two days on the way, and will finish the journey around the world in ten days more. You remember the fuss some papers made when a young woman went around the world in seventy-two days and some hours. It was enough to make one sick. It was nothing. Anybody could do it. You remember Jules Verne's 'Around the world in eighty days.' He stole my thunder, but I have beaten Phineas Fogg out of sight.

"I left Tacoma on March 18th; I made the trip to Yokohama in sixteen days. There I found that the North German Lloyd steamer had been gone two days. She was at Kobe. I asked them to hold her by wire. They laughed at me, but I held her by wire and engaged a special train. I travelled 300 miles through the interior of Japan. At Nagazki the consul told me that no foreigner could get a passport in less than three days. I said I'd get one in three seconds or see the Mikado or bust the Empire. I went to Tokio and got my passport in thirty minutes. I took a special train for Kobe, and there I hired a steam launch to catch the steamship General Werder. I caught her and went to Hongkong, but was delayed outside the harbor two days by a fog. I left Hongkong on April 13, and reached Singapore, a distance 1428 miles, in three and a half days. I was detained thirty hours on the way by rain and a cyclone. I jumped to Colombo, a distance of 1517 miles, in four days and made another jump of 2093 miles to Aden in six and a half days, beating the fast P. & O. sixteen-knot boat by eighteen hours. I went up the Red Sea to Suez, a distance of 1308 miles, in three and a half days and got in the canal before the P. & O. boat. I had sent word on to charter a steam launch in case of need, but did not want it. The steamship Preussen did not catch the mail, so I went aboard the P. & O. steamer Arabia, and went through the Suez canal in sixteen hours. I was at Brindisi two and a half days later, and left Brindisi at 2 p. m. on Thursday, May 8. Upon arriving at Calais I found there was no boat which I could catch. I telegraphed to Dover for a special boat and was told I could have one for £41. 'All right,' I said. The boat came, but there were many people who desired to come, so they charged the others 17 shillings a head and charged me nothing. I was £40 ahead. I reached Calais at 2 o'clock this morning and telegraphed for a special train from Dover to London; left Dover at noon, arrived in London at 2 p. m. and will leave at 8:20.

"If I leave on that train I can catch the Etruria at Queenstown and sail in her for New York to-morrow afternoon. I will arrive at New York next Saturday. I will then take a fast express over the New York Central or Pennsylvania Central road and reach Chicago, 1,000 miles, in twenty-four hours. I will give a reception to the Press Club of Chicago in the dining car for an hour, when I will take a special train over the Northwest railroad for St. Paul and get there in ten hours. At St. Paul I will hire a special train on the Northern Pacific railroad. It will cost $800 and will carry me to Tacoma, a distance of 2,000 miles. Arrived at Tacoma, I shall have been around the world in sixty-two days."

Mr. Train paused, for the tenth part of a second, during which he pushed his fez a little further over his left ear and exclaimed: "What do you think of that?" He did not wait for an answer, but exploded again.

"I'll startle em, I tell you. I'll tell what a man with brains and purpose can do. I built the first tramway in London. I built the Northern Pacific railroad. I have been a candidate against Grant and Greeley. I have done more than all the presidents from Washington to Ben Harrison. Pretty father of his country was Washington! Why, he never had a child of his own. I'll tell some truths when I get home. I tell you, if you are over there, get it inside of thirty days, or you will never see it. The country's going to smash, and I'm going to smash."

The glittering eyes of the old campaigner snapped as he rattled on, saying occasionally that his mental and physical powers were never more virile, in spite of his placards. His trip, he predicted, would give birth to a thousand books, and remain the record until he saw fit to break it, for he claimed to have lost twelve days by accident or more vexatious delays.

Many people, he said, had called to see him during the few hours of his stay in London. In mentioning some of their names, he suddenly paused, and, as if the words had been fired out of a gun that was in a hurry, exclaimed:

"Extraordinary isn't it? Of twenty members of parliament I knew, only one is alive. From him, Sir Hugh Childers, I received a note saying he would call on me, but I'll be off before he gets here."

Mr. Train looked in first-class health, and in spite of the somewhat excited manner in which he at times expressed himself, particularly when he declared that he was a socialist, anarchist, atheist and several other ists, none of whom would make a pleasant bedfellow, was never at a loss to tell the difference between a half crown and a two shilling piece. He and his secretary, S. W. Wall, of Tacoma, left for Queenstown on the 8:20 o'clock train this evening.

Mr. Train sailed for New York on the Etruria to-day, expressing confidence in his ability to complete the trip to Tacoma in sixty or sixty-one days.

SPRING STYLES FOR MEN.

Square cornered cuffs supersede all other varieties.

A coat should now be left unbuttoned, so as to show the vest.

In Paris overcoats are cut loose and lined with flannel in large checks.

Three and four button cutaways are proper for morning wear and half dress.

Spring overcoats of genuine Donegal homespun are a late and sensible Anglomaniac fad.

The chimsler a made-up scarf is now tied the better, as long as the effect is original and artistic.

A four button cutaway of black diagonal has been introduced with favor by grooms at recent day weddings.

A hollow cane will soon appear upon the market, in the cavity of which will be inserted a set of poker chips.

A new white waistcoat is made for wear without laundering or starching. It is sponged tailor fashion when soiled.

As yet no commission has been appointed to ask the dude if he prefers electricity to strangulation by modern neckwear.

It is as bad form in England to wear a derby hat with a frock or cutaway tail coat as it is to wear a high hat with a jacket.

A frock coat is never called a Prince Albert in England. Shirt cuffs there are "wristbands," and undershirts are "vests."

Poole's new spring overcoat hangs straight and full in the back like a box coat, and showing no waist line does not appear to fit.

New cheviots for trousers are out in bulk. A neat gray or brown check or stripe is a good selection if the coloring is not too loud.

Among various new and nobby special garments is a yachting coat of cream white flannel bound with an inch and a half navy blue braid.

A dude in one of the new English flannel tennis suits looks like an animated checker board. It is unnecessary to further describe the pattern.

A great quantity of goods of a decided yellow shade, in some cases running into a sickly taffy color, have been made up as spring suitings.

A well regulated imagination must recoil with horror from some of the barbaric combinations in shirts, ties and waistcoats which it is now possible to make.

A number of swells have lately had made up what is known as "Raining in London" trousers. They have the bottoms neatly turned up and stitched in place.

A new scarf is made in the form of a mutton chop. Laid across the stripes of a red cross barred gridiron shirt it has an appetizing appearance beyond description.

Gloves are not worn to dinner parties, the theater and concerts and receptions, nor are they kept on during a call, but it is proper to wear them at balls, in the streets and traveling.

New cotton hose, says an exchange, have rainbow ankle stripes on a tan ground, with ribs and feet of darker shade, while lisle thread shows maltese crosses on mode or black grounds.

Suspenders are to be found to match the color of every fancy shirt sold. A swell wardrobe cannot be without six to a dozen pairs of these useful articles in various degrees of elegance.

A delightfully soft and silky new stuff for fancy coatings is called "Angora." It comes in checks, stripes and mixtures of several shades broken with a hair line of a third color, generally red.

A dressy looking summer costume that is growing in favor is made up of coat and trousers of fluffy dead black material, very light in texture and worn with a white waistcoat. The wearer always looks cool.

"Lounging" jackets are made in various light cloths. A handsome Scotch mixed tweed is thus utilized with effect. Most of these are made with four or five buttons, which are not used, and a long, rolling collar.

The correct trouser is eighteen and a half inches at the knee and from seventeen and a half to eighteen at the bottom for average height. This is called the peg top style, and measurements may be suited to individual build.

The swallowtail coat has undergone some slight alterations. There is now no longer any stitching or binding on the edge. The sleeves are larger, to admit of carrying the handkerchief, which is no longer worn inside the vest.—Clothier and Furnisher.

WHAT THEY WEAR.

An owl, or owl's head, with big topaz eyes, is much liked for odd ornaments.

Surplice and basket folds are almost epidemic on the fronts of new spring gowns.

Pure white hair of the best quality is so rare as to be worth more than its weight in gold.

To be stylish your stockings must match your gown, or else of the finest and fastest black.

For the throat or hair come lilac clusters in enamel of the natural colors enriched with diamond dew.

The newest flower parasols are made of deep green grass, with a deep border of scarlet silken poppies.

The woman without a vest of some sort to her frock is nowadays almost as lonesome as a white blackbird.

As to sleeves high authorities differ, some declaring the plain sleeve passe, and others that it is the height of style.

HETTY GREEN'S MONEY.

WORTH $40,000,000, AND THINKS SHE IS POOR.

She has More than Once Beaten the Shrewdest Speculators in Wall Street—She Captures the Georgia Central Railroad by Methods Known to the Street.

The principal features in the case before Judge Collins the other day, says the Chicago News, were those of Hetty Green, already a large owner of Chicago real estate, wants section twenty-one in Cicero, and was present with her attorneys to fight the confirmation of the sale of the tract to the Grant Locomotive Works for $602,000. She is willing to give $100,000 more than that sum.

Mrs. Green would not be suspected of being worth $40,000,000 on a passing glance. Nothing in her appearance or apparel would indicate that she could not schedule out of the way of the sheriff under the homestead and exemption act. Mrs. Green was doubtless a pretty-faced girl. She is not yet without traces of beauty in her gentle rounded chin, pleasant blue eyes, straight Grecian nose and wavy hair. Age—she's about fifty—has weakened the tension of her facil muscles, and the fullness of her cheeks hangs in a gentle roll at her jaw. This makes her square-faced and heavy-jawed, but her chin is short and her eye mild, almost dull, in its expression. Her nose is straight, and the point decidedly sharp—her only unpleasant feature. The expression of her face at the hearing was not what would be looked for in the shrewd, grasping Wall street speculator and miserly business operator. She had a motherly appearance. She looked like a good-natured, philanthropic old lady, who was fond of her achievements in the kitchen and pantry. Her forehead is high and narrow, and with her hair combed down over each corner gives it a pointed appearance. Her mouth is small and drawn enough at the corners to rob it of any suggestion of levity. Her hair, once brown, is threaded with gray.

Mrs. Green's costume probably cost $25. It was seal-brown cloth, with a common variety of lace a shade lighter over her corsage and skirt from throat to hem. A black velvet bonnet with a bunch of artificial flowers sat on her head, and a fifteen-cent half-face veil shaded her eyes and forehead. She concealed a pair of large, bony hands in a muff of mink fur. She wore no jewelry except a pair of small pendants in her ears. She is short, inclined to stoutness, plain and ordinary looking as seen in a crowd with nothing in form, face or costume to attract attention. Yet Mrs. Green is a noted woman, and possessed of many remarkable, if not always admirable, characteristics.

Her father was a Massachusetts whaler, and when he died left Hettie $9,000,000 while she was yet a young girl. An aunt dying shortly after her father died added $4,000,000 more to her inheritance. She began investing and speculating in a conservative manner, and soon doubled her fortune. She married an amiable gentleman who has been content to be the husband of Hettie Green. The marriage, it is said, was conducted on business principles, each party retaining control of his or her individual fortune. Mr. Green has not been as lucky as Mrs. Green, and she has distanced him in the race for wealth. Mrs. Green is said to be parsimonious, and to have a constitutional feeling that she is poor. The fountains of human sympathy in her are choked with gold coin. For years she had done business with the Ciscos, sons of the famous banker John J. Cisco. One day she heard a rumor that the bank was not sound. Immediately she demanded the $475,000 she had on deposit and all her securities, which ran into the millions. In spite of the protests of the Ciscos that the immediate withdrawal of so large a sum would ruin them, she persisted, and the bank failed. Her husband, it is said, owed the bank $800,000 at the same time.

Mrs. Green had more than once beaten the shrewdest speculators on Wall street, and one of her latest achievements was to capture the Central Georgia railroad through the methods practiced by the masculine manipulators on the street. Mrs. Green has large financial interests in other railroads. Beside her sat a blonde young man, who Mrs. Green says she intends to make the richest man in America. He is her son. He is an ordinary looking young man who parts his hair in the middle and pulls some straight bangles over his forehead. He wears spectacles and a thin, short mustache.

CHAMPION OF A MARTYR.

Stevenson Defends Damien's Fame and Scores Missionary Hyde.

LONDON, May 11.—Robert Louis Stevenson, in a letter addressed to Rev. Mr. Hyde, of Honolulu, enters into the energetic defence of the late Rev. Father Damien, the famous missionary among the lepers of the Sandwich Islands, against Mr. Hyde's declarations that the leprosy of which Father Damien died was due to his vices and his personal uncleanliness. Mr. Stevenson not only defends Damien's character from the aspersions of Hyde, but attacks Hyde's character and conduct, and charges him with living a life of elegant ease as a "swell" missionary, occupying a fine house with the most luxurious surroundings available and keeping safely away from the leprous and diseased poor, while Father Damien renounced all the comforts of life and was crowned with the glory of saintly abnegation, while in the midst of the poor and surrounded by the worst forms of human misery. Stevenson, although he is himself a Presbyterian, goes so far as to denounce Presbyterian missionaries generally, for, as he alleges, their avoidance of anything like self-sacrifice in their labors. He declares that Damien was a man of pure and blameless life, and that Hyde's charges are based on the open slander and obscene gossip of the drinking houses of Apia, Honolulu. The letter is a model of Stevenson's incisive style.

The Smooth Shave.

A few years ago, if anywhere was seen a man with a smooth shaven face, the presumption was that either he was a preacher or a comedy actor. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred the presumption would have been correct.

In the last year or two, however, smooth faces are becoming more and more common. A man with good complexion and features does not see why he should veil his classic countenance under a covering of hair, and he does not thus veil it. In cities the movement for the smooth shave is most popular among young men who dress fashionably. A beard, like top boots and a shirt open in front, is coming among these to be regarded as a mark of an old man and a fogy.

It is claimed that the smooth shave shows a mobile, expressive face to the best advantage, and that it gives a classic expression to the countenance. If a man's face is handsome, expressive and refined, let him exhibit it for all it is worth, as a woman does. Actors, time out of mind, have kept their faces clean, to show the expressions that play over them upon the stage.

It is certain the smooth shaven face is coming in fashion again. When it does, with it will appear also the long hair and curled locks. An exhibition at once of a smooth face and a close clipped head would be something too bald to contemplate. And when the wheel of fashion revolves thus far, we may look again for lace ruffles, velvet coats, knee breeches and silver shoe buckles for our gorgeous youths in their best clothes. History repeats itself.

Universal Peace.

In the twenty-five years of its existence the Universal Peace union has accomplished considerable in a quiet way. Its president is Alfred H. Love, and besides the main organization there are thirty branch societies. It was the Peace union that recommended the system of international arbitration that resulted in the Geneva tribunal and the Berlin conference. It has aided in securing the abolition of capital punishment in seven states and sixteen foreign countries. The movement in favor of arbitration now gradually making its way in most civilized countries is due to the quiet work of this admirable organization. It has been able to avert several Indian wars in this country, Mr. Love says.

But there is one point on which this admirable society is way off. It is trying to abolish our national guard, endeavoring by all the means at its command to do away with the state militia regiments. It is also endeavoring to make schools and colleges drop the military drill. Don't do it, Mr. Love. Military drill adds much to the health and gracefulness of the school boys. It is one of the finest of physical exercises.

Besides, although we all hope sincerely there will never be war in our noble country again, still there might be war, you know. In self defense let us keep our state militia up to a point of splendid efficiency.

While you were trying to make all the world honest, you would not cease to put bolts and locks on your doors, would you?

Women as Dentists' Assistants.

Recently the dentists of St. Louis have begun to employ young women as office assistants. Probably a dozen are thus employed. They are paid from $6 to $10 a week. Among other things, it is their duty to assist in bracing the nerves of patients. One of them says: "If the patient is a woman I frequently stand by her side and hold her hand sympathetically. Some people may laugh at this, but it's an immense help to the person in the chair. Once or twice when a very nervous man was being operated on I have taken his hand, and it really braced his nerve wonderfully.—N. Y. Telegram.

OVERDUE SHIPS.

Both Badly Strained and Forced Into Falkland Islands for Repairs.

A dispatch from Frisco under date of the 11th inst., says that the British bark Embleton, bound from Ardrossan to Puget sound, has been out 310 days and is soon expected to reach her destination. Her long voyage is due to stormy weather, during which she was much damaged. She was spoken on July 12, 1889, in latitude 43 degrees north, longitude 11 degs. west. Shortly afterwards she put into Port Stanley, in the Falkland Islands, damaged in her spars and rigging. She was beached for repairs and left for Puget Sound on February 20. Since then she has not been heard from. The Embleton is owned by P. Iredale & Co. of Liverpool.

The British bark Astoria, which is owned by the same firm, bound from Mayport to New Westminster, has been out seventy-nine days. When last heard from she was also at Port Stanley, into which port she put on April 29 in distress, with her deck strained and leaking badly. Her hatches and sky-lights had been washed away, and several stancheons were gone.

NEWS OF THE NORCROSS.

Letter From Captain Roop—A Rough Time off Cape Horn.

A letter from Capt. D. A. Roop of the bark Norcross, so well-known in Victoria has been received here. The Norcross, it will be recalled, loaded salmon at this port for the United Kingdom last fall and sailed on Dec. 7th.

Capt. Roop writes a very interesting letter, part of which is given. He says: "Had light winds to the equator which we crossed on Jan. 8th, thence to Cape Horn had the usual weather. For several days before arriving off the Horn the barometer was very low for the summer season, 28.60 to 29.00. It rather puzzled me as the indications of bad weather were absent. However, the day we passed the Horn, Feb. 11th, we suddenly found out why. It came on from the southwest one of the hardest of gales, and the worst sea I have ever experienced. The squalls blew with hurricane force, and the sea was so terrific that the ship could not keep clear of them, although she was running for all she was worth. About midnight I was lying down in my cabin, when I felt the ship give a heavy lurch, and I knew the sea had filled the decks. I heard the second mate rush to the companion door and call at the top of his voice 'come up quick for she's going down,' (as if going up would have been any use if she was sinking).

I assure you it was startling, to say the least, to hear an officer call that out in a dark night off Cape Horn. I think I was on deck in about the smallest fraction of a second, when to my great relief I found the Norcross was still on top. I asked one of the young fellows next day if he was frightened, he said, "No, sir, not until the second mate called out to pray, for she was going down."

Had light winds in the south Atlantic, and crossed the equator March 20th; had strong north-east trades and heavy sea to 22 deg. north lat., thence to the mouth of the channel had northerly and easterly winds, which delayed us considerably.

We reached the Channel on the 12th of April, making a very good trip after all. On the voyage we spoke the four-masted ship Waterloo, of Glasgow, from Frisco for Hull. Was first in company with her Jan. 25th, then we lost sight of each other until March 2nd, were then in company several days. The last time I saw her was on April 4th, when we got separated in a gale. On April 1st spoke the ship Brynhilda, from Frisco to Queenstown, 111 days out."

Capt. Roop states in his letter that the Norcross will load at Maryport, Eng., for Bahia Blanca, Buenos Aires. He is sorry that the vessel is not coming out to Victoria again this season, but trusts she will take a trip this way next year. Capt. Roop's many friends here will no doubt be pleased to hear of his safe arrival. He writes in his letter that he wishes to be remembered to all, as does his wife, who was here with him, both of whom are in the best of health and spirits.

Another Form of Bribery.

General Laurie having travelled from London to Ottawa in order to attend the session of parliament found himself compelled by the law to draw mileage for the whole distance, but there is no law to compel him to retain the six hundred dollars in excess of the proper amount the law compelled him to accept and he intends, it is stated, to devote it to endowing a fisherman's benefit association in his constituency of Shelburne. The generosity of those members of parliament who, having voted themselves a salary grab, then devote the grab to endowing the agricultural societies of their country, is proverbial, and General Laurie will be only acting in accordance with a time-honored precedent in so disposing of his spoil. This is merely a method of bribing a constituency at the expense of the country. It is not a legitimate way for a member to make himself or his party popular with the electors, though it is the common one adopted by all members from Sir John Macdonald, the Premier, down. Sir Charles Tupper gave railways, Sir Hector Langevin post-offices, and Sir John Macdonald everything. If General Laurie's conscience troubles him in regard to the money forced upon him he should give it back to the treasury, not to his constituents.—Montreal Witness.

A Marvellous Recovery.

I was so ill with inflammatory rheumatism in 1882 that I was given up, and had all my earthly business put in order. One of my sons begged me to get Burdock Blood Bitters. After the third bottle I could sit up alone and eat a good meal, and in six weeks I was out of bed feeling better than I ever felt. I take three bottles every spring, and two every fall. MRS. M. N. Striking Waiters.

Nothing new has developed in the strike of the marine waiters. Steward Fox, of the steamer Olympian, has succeeded in making an arrangement with the waiters to keep them at work until the matter is definitely settled. Before the men would agree to work he had to guarantee the increase of $5 per month asked for until an answer from the company is received.

A Tacoma Failure.

Mortgages against the Pacific Mill Co., of Tacoma, have been foreclosed, the amount involved being $200,000. The reason of the failure is said to be due to a lack of sufficient capital to carry on the extensive business started by the company. It is believed that arrangements will be made to keep the mills going.

Contracts Awarded.

Messrs. McGregor & Jeeves have been awarded the contract for Messrs. Lenz & Leiser's new block to be built at the corner of Yates street and Commercial Alley. The contract price is about $25,000.

Mr. T. B. Hall, of Hall, Ross & Co., has awarded a contract for the erection of his new $30,000 residence, to be erected near the Dunsmuir Castle, to Thos. Catteral, who will commence operations immediately.

Sale of Sealskins.

Davis, Haber & Co., of San Francisco, announce that by virtue of a suit of the U. S. against the schooners Black Diamond, Minnie, Pathfinder, Jas. G. Swan, Juanita, Lily and their cargoes, consisting of 2470 fur sealskins, the same having been adjudged forfeited to the United States by the District Court, that O. P. Porter, the U. S. Marshall for Alaska will sell the seized skins on the 17th day of May, A.D. 1890, at 12 o'clock M. of said day, at the salesroom of Davis, Haber & Co., 211 Pine street, in the city of San Francisco.

Two Trains Daily Between Portland and Spokane Falls.

Effective May 11th, 1890, the Union Pacific System will establish two daily trains between Portland and Spokane Falls. Pullman Palace Sleepers and Reclining Chair cars will be run between Portland and Spokane Falls without change.

This new arrangement will afford both local and through passengers additional and unsurpassed facilities. Tickets, detailed time of trains, and general information can be obtained upon application to any ticket agent Union Pacific System.

Making Arrangements.

A meeting of the chairmen of the various celebration committees was held in the city hall last evening, when medals which are to be given as prizes in the various competitions were selected. The meeting also agreed that no liquor should be sold on the Gorge Hill during the regatta. On account of their being but one ship in Esquimalt the usual rule that three boats must start in each race was waived as regards the naval cutter race. A committee was selected to arrange for the accommodation of visitors during the celebration, and those having room to spare are requested to communicate with Mr. S. P. Mills.

A Fine Schooner.

Yesterday afternoon a fine fore-and-aft model schooner, of four feet length, was placed in Goodacre Lake by the Watson Brothers. She is a splendid model, full-rigged, and sails like a witch. Under canvass she looks fine sailing on the lake, and the way she flew along yesterday shows that she is a crack. The designers was Alex. Watson, Jr. of the Union Ship Yard, he being famous as a designer of fast vessels. The Schooner has been formally presented to the park committee and the little vessel will be kept at anchor on Goodacre Lake for the season. The gift is a very pretty one and duly appreciated by those gentlemen who are always anxious to beautify the park.

A Musical Treat in Store.

For some time past Prof. Sharpe has been training a large chorus composed of the best voices of our city choirs, for the purpose of giving a sacred and secular concert in aid of the Women's Auxilliary of the Y. M. C. A. The chorus is well nigh perfect and the concert will be given on the 21st inst. The Women's Auxilliary of the Y. M. C. A. took upon themselves the task of furnishing the parlor of the Y. M. C. A. new rooms, and have incurred considerable indebtedness, which in this manner they hope to have removed. Besides having a splendid musical treat those who attend will know that they are contributing towards a most worthy and deserving institution. Philharmonic Hall should be packed on this occasion. The programmes will be published later.

Tramway Company's Meeting.

An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the National Electric Tramway was held at the company's office last evening, President Higgins in the chair. The meeting having been called for important business a large number of shareholders were present.

The first matter taken into consideration by the meeting was the advisability of registering under the Companies Act 1890. The president explained some of the advantages which would accrue from this step and strongly recommended that it should be done. The suggestion was accordingly adopted.

The extension of the street car system to Esquimalt town was taken up. The directors estimated that the cost of carrying out this work would be $85,000. Some of the shareholders were of opinion that it would be advisable to build only to the vicinity of Russell station for the present, as that would reach the populated portion of the territory. On motion, however, the directors were authorized to make arrangements to extend the line to Esquimalt town.

The president explained that there was some difficulty about getting a right of way from the council over Catherine street to Beacon Hill, but that there should be no difficulty about it as Catherine street was undoubtedly corporation property and not a park road. The directors were authorized to take steps to have the service improved to the park.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

City Hall Clock.

The hall committee are just now looking over designs for a town clock, as such an article is to be placed on the tower erected on Douglas street. The dials of the clock will be over seven feet in diameter, and it will probably be fitted to strike the quarters as well as the hour. With such a clock in position there will never be any excuse to offer by those who are behind time.

To Housekeepers.

The heated term is upon us, and the need of a good disinfectant becomes apparent again. One of the cheapest, and at the same time most highly recommended articles of this description, is Napthazone, a notice of which appears in another column. It is a thorough disinfectant, and no housekeeper should be without it.

Warning Given.

Complaint has been made to the police of a young man who has lately been distinguishing himself by using abusive language to a lady connected with a city restaurant. No summons was taken out, but the complaint has been made that the young fellow may be warned to stop his unseemly remarks, or else he may figure in the police court as defendant. The lady naturally does not care to make herself conspicuous by prosecuting, but there is always a limit to endurance, and the party complained of had better be a little less free with his language.

A Boon to Mankind.

The quickest, surest and best remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, soreness and lameness, is Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It quickly cures sprains, bruises, burns, frostbites, chilblains, etc. For croup, cold, quinsy, etc., take 10 to 30 drops on sugar, and apply the oil externally also, when immediate relief will result. *

BRIEF LOCALS.

The Day's Doings in City and Province Briefly Related.

A new sidewalk is being laid on Bastion street.

The Walla Walla brought 190 tons of freight for this port.

The school trustees will meet in the city hall this evening.

A lodge of the Order of St. George is to be formed at Nanaimo.

Mr. R. McIntosh has got the planing mill, which he bought from Chas. Hayward, running.

Contractor Haggerty is making things buzz around the site of the Canada Western Hotel.

A report was in circulation in Nanaimo yesterday that Capt. Jack Green had died at Savory Island.

The police court docket was a blank this morning, not a single arrest having been made during the 24 hours.

The foundation for the new Pandora Street Methodist Church is completed and the stone cutters and masons are now at work.

The Yosemite brought down two carloads of horses from Calgary and 120 bales of hay from British Columbia ranches last evening.

F. Campbell, jr., manager of the Queen City and fife and drum bands, has received the contract for supplying music during the celebration.

The members of the Queen City band leave by the Kingston to-night on a pleasure trip across the Sound. They will return to-morrow evening.

The TIMES office last night received six splendid trout, with compliments of Fred Weldon and Mr. MacElmen. The fish were caught in Cowichan Lake.

The Victoria Jockey Club is running a four-inch display advertisement in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer relative to the races at the Driving Park, Queen's Birthday season.

Steamboat men report the water very high at the mouth of the Fraser river, with much driftwood coming down, which would seriously hinder the navigation of the river at night.

A letter put in a letter box, James Bay, at 11 o'clock a.m. on Monday, addressed to the TIMES office, reached its destination this morning. Postmaster Shakespeare should rise and explain.

City Treasurer Kent has a Marechal Nell rosebush which is completely covered with the magnificent flowers which have a world wide reputation among florists and lovers of beautiful blossoms.

The new fishing regulations on the Fraser went into force Saturday, all boats being obliged to cease salmon fishing at 6 o'clock that morning, and no nets put in the water again until Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

Two of the elephants of McMahon's circus got ugly at Seattle on Sunday, and took charge of the lower part of the town, running wild through the streets. After a deal of trouble they were captured, but not until the whole city had seen the elephant.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

A. Mayer, of Nanaimo, is in town on a visit.

Mrs. McLagan returned to-day to Vancouver.

J. C. Henderson, Chilliwhack, is at the Oriental.

E. A. Wadhams came up by the Walla Walla.

D. Drysdale, of New Westminster, is at the Driard.

J. Davies leaves this evening on a trip to Nelson, B.C.

A. L. Belyea returned from the Sound last evening.

W. A. Stevens, real estate agent, Port Townsend, is in the city.

I. Braverman and wife returned from a trip to San Francisco last evening.

T. E. Ladner and J. Laidlaw were passengers from Westminster last evening.

J. Dunsmuir and wife returned by the Walla Walla from a trip to San Francisco.

Dr. Milne returned from New Westminster last night where he had been attending a meeting of the N. W. Gas Co.

D. W. Buchanan, editor of the Commercial, Winnipeg, and Mrs. Buchanan, are in the city and stopping at the Driard.

Norman Macaulay, who has returned from Kootenay, speaks in glowing terms of the great mining future before that district.

P. L. Thomas, traveling inspector for the Commercial Union and other insurance companies, is in town looking after risks.

H. J. Cambie and R. P. Cooke, engineers, came down from Vancouver last night on business connected with arbitration case.

J. H. Todd and wife returned on Saturday from a four months' trip to Europe. They visited England, Ireland and Scotland and returned via Montreal and Winnipeg.

T. M. Hamilton, a well-known figure in mining circles, who has for the past 25 years been connected with mining in the interior, leaves Victoria to-morrow morning for Nelson, Kootenay, where he will start a general store keeping business.

E. B. Cochrane, son of Senator Cochrane of Quebec, is in the city. Mr. Cochrane, who is the owner of a large ranch in the Western Territories, has, it is understood, disposed of a large number of thoroughbred cattle in the province.

Thermometer at Kellogg's.

Average temperature to-day.....58°

Annual Picnic.

The annual picnic of the St. Andrew's (Presbyterian) Sunday School will be held at Aldemere on Saturday, June 7th. Arrangements will be made with the railway company to carry out passengers at reduced rates.

Bicycle Parade.

All those wheelmen who take an interest in the bicycle parade to be given on the evening of the 24th of May are requested to meet at the Burnes House, Bastion square, on Thursday evening next, when arrangements will be made for the event.

Indians on Strike.

The Indians that work in the Chemainus saw mill went on strike yesterday morning for higher wages, and the mill, with the exception of the planer, is shut down. It is thought it will not last long for the heathen will take the place of the savage and all will be serene once more.

Port Angeles Real Estate.

On the 7th inst. Mr. T. W. Carter, of this city, purchased twenty acres of land in Port Angeles, which he divided up into 96 lots, all of which have already been sold at an advance. The deeds for the property number 108, and were signed at the American Consul's office on the 10th inst.

The China Steamer.

The Canadian Pacific Co.'s steamer Batavia passed outward at 11 o'clock last night for Japan and China. She carried the following for Yokohama: Mrs. Clutterbuck, Mr. Roland Finch, Mr. K. Jehii; for Hong Kong: Mr. Jas. Chisholm and 61 Chinese steerage. The Batavia carried full freight, consisting of machinery, flour, cotton goods, etc.

Union Shipyard Notes.

The new steamer being built at Clark & Watson's shipyard for Munn & Co., Fraser River, will be launched to-morrow evening. She will be fitted up at the Albion Iron Works with powerful machinery, and when completed will be what she was designed to be, a most useful boat.

Two of Sayward's schooners, the Eliza and Diamond, will be hauled out at this yard for a thorough overhauling.

Supreme Court.

In the Supreme Court this morning J. P. Walls for the defendants applied for the discharge of the six Japanese sailors who were sent up for two months for assaulting the mate of the schooner Penelope. Justice Drake, who was sitting on the bench, ordered that a rule nisi be issued returnable on Thursday, for the appearance of the warden of the Provincial jail to show cause why he should detain the prisoners.

Individual Alarms.

In accordance with an order of the city Mr. McMicking has sent to the east for several electric alarms, which are to be placed in the houses of firemen who live away from the fire halls. When an alarm is sounded, these alarms will indicate the locality of the blaze by striking the numbers of the boxes rung in. By this means everyone connected with the department is called out promptly and no delays will result. It is expected that it will be about a month before the alarms are in place.

Custom Work.

Men's tweed, corduroy or serge pants to order, $3; men's jean pants, $1.50. A large stock of men's, boy's and youths' clothing in stock. Youths' washing suits, $1.25; tweed washing suits from $2.50; men's good suits from $6 upwards. Tickets are now been issued for the grand half yearly drawing, June 26th. The largest stock of boots and shoes in the Province. Russell, McDonald & Co., opposite the Iron Church, Douglas street.

Political Rumors.

It is said that Mayor Brown of New Westminster is being pressed by his friends to become a candidate for the legislature.

Reports from New Westminster district are to the effect that a certain contractor for roads and bridges is at present circulating a petition in the district asking the Hon. John Robson to become a candidate.

The names of Messrs. James Orr, Sam. Greer, R. G. Tatlow, F. C. Colton, Thos. Dunn, and W. Templeton, are mentioned in connection with the representation of Vancouver.

The Free Press states that quite a number of names are mentioned for Nanaimo city and district, among whom are: For the city, Mr. A Haslam, Mr. C. C. McKenzie, and ex-Mayor Pawson. For the district, Mr. J. Dunsmuir, and Dr. Walkem. It is also probable that candidates will be nominated by the labor organizations, both in the city and district. There no doubt will be a contest in both constituencies.

The New United Shows.

Now that the huge pictorials descriptive of the many wonders to be seen in McMahon's Circus adorn the bulletin boards and dead walls and the small bills scattered around and about announcing its appearance at Victoria on Thursday and Friday, May 22 and 23, quite an interest is being manifested from the fact that it is generall understood that among the many interesting features of this new show will be found what is claimed to be the largest animal in the world, Queen Jumbo, an elephant, the consort and constant companion of the late lamented Jumbo, at the Zoological Gardens, London, for a number of years, and now weighing many tons more than Jumbo ever weighed, and a much taller elephant. The new arenic features will no doubt attract the multitude where there is so much to be seen and that so unusual and interesting cannot fail to create intense interest.

NAUTICAL NOTES.

Items of Interest Along the Water Front—General Marine News.

The steamer Lottie brought in a load of coal yesterday.

The Walla Walla arrived from San Francisco at 9 o'clock last night.

The tug Pilot left this morning for Cape Flattery, looking for a tow.

The schooner Venture was taken off the ways yesterday, after having been cleaned and overhauled for her seasons work in Behring's Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Arrived—Ships Bohemia and Schepp, from Seattle; steamers San Mateo, Comox, B. C.; and Costa Rica from Departure Bay.

The steamer Rainbow arrived yesterday afternoon from Vancouver and immediately commenced loading naval stores for Esquimalt at the C. P. N. dock.

There is a man in Southern Illinois who laughs at the idea that marriage is a failure. He has just married his sixth wife. Each successive spouse brought him a farm, and he is now one of the largest land owners in that part of the country. This proves that marriage may be made a success if followed persistently and intelligently. He, however, regrets his lack of foresight in one instance. He did not, as he should have done, early in life, hire a minister and undertaker by contract, and this omission has cost him somewhat heavily, but withal he is self-complacent, and feels that he has made a reasonable success in life.

RECEPTION TO THE DUKE.

A Few Matters Arranged by Chairmen of Committees.

A meeting of the chairmen of the sub-committees on the reception to the Duke of Connaught met in the city hall last night, Mayor Grant in the chair.

It was decided that no liquor stands be allowed at the Gorge on the 24th instant.

Mr. Yates' letter, giving the committee permission to use his grounds, on condition that any damage were made good, was read and accepted with thanks. The committee decided to place a barge at Curtis' Point for landing purposes.

The tender of Mr. Frank Campbell for supplying music was accepted, a brass and fife band to be supplied.

In view of the large influx of visitors a committee was appointed to secure accommodation over and above what the hotels could afford, by securing halls, etc., and putting bedding in them.

It was decided that as regards the rule providing that three boats should start, or no race, that the cutters from the war ships should form an exception to the rule.

A committee was appointed to wait on His Honor the Lieut.-Governor to arrange matters in regard to the reception of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

The tug Lorne has been placed at the disposal of the committee by Mr. Jas. Dunsmuir, for bringing the royal party ashore from the Abyssinia.

BELIEVED TO BE LOST.

The Ship Hustede Long Overdue—Premiums Offered on Insurance.

The German ship J. H. Hustede, which loaded salmon at this port last fall for London, has never been heard of since she left this port, now two hundred and two days ago.

Yesterday Mr. Robt. Ward received a cable from London to the effect that it was believed she had been lost, and eighty-five guineas per cent. had been offered as premiums on her insurance. This would indicate that hopes of her safe arrival in port had been abandoned, as the premiums have risen gradually from 50 per cent. to 85. Mr. Ward is of the opinion that she has met with some disaster, as she carried an excessively heavy load of salmon, the largest in fact ever taken in one bottom from the port. The Hustede had no ballast, her captain, who was very obstinate in the matter, saying that she needed none, as she was stiff enough without it, and it was against the advice of several nautical people that she went to sea without ballast, although some say that her model was one which did not require ballast to keep her upright.

Capt. J. G. Cox to-day told a TIMES reporter that there was still time for the Hustede to show up, as instances of even longer passages had come under his notice. He believes the Hustede to be a safe risk yet, and thinks that unless she has been in a collision she will soon be at London. Probably adverse winds, or the loss of one of her masts, has been the reason of her delay.

Three Large Contracts.

Messrs. McGregor and Jeeves, contractors, to-day commenced work on the rice and flour mill addition. The same firm will on Thursday commence work on the Colonial Hotel, and they have also secured the contract for Messrs. Lenz & Leiser's new block, corner Yates street and Commercial alley. The firm of McGregor & Jeeves has not been long formed, but as both mumbers of it are practical workmen, they will no doubt get a good share of the contracts going.

Bahia Blanca.

The letter of Capt. Roop of the bark Noreross, part of which appears in another column, states that his vessel is to load at Maryport for Bahia Blanca, Buenos Ayres. This port a few years ago was almost unknown, but it has lately come to the front as a city of much commercial importance. It is to be the terminus of the great South American trans-continental line between the east and west coasts of that continent. Bahia Blanca is situated closely to the confines of Patagonia, and is the center of a wonderfully rich country. Capt. J. G. Cox of this city says he visited the site of the present city some fifteen years ago, when it was nothing but a wilderness. It is now a large and flourishing terminus of a railway line.

A Wrinkle in Reckoning Dates.

A gentleman gives the following formula for ascertaining the day of the week, which can be tried by any one: Take the last two figures of the year, add a quarter of this, disregarding the fraction; add the date of the month, and to this add the figure in the following list, one figure standing for each month. 3-6-6-2-4-0-2-5-1-3-6-1. Divide the sum by 7, and the remainder will give the number of the day in the week, and where there is no remainder the day will be Saturday. As an example, take March 19, 1890. Take 90, add 22, add 6. This gives 137, which divided by seven leaves a remainder of four, which is the number of the day, or Wednesday.

Cowan & Wilson.

The wholesale grocery business of Mr. S. J. Pitts has been purchased by Messrs. Cowan and Wilson, the former assuming the active management. The member of the firm are well and favorably known in every part of the Province. Mr. Wilson is one of the solid men of British Columbia, who long ago made a reputation as a successful business man. Mr. Cowan, although a more recent arrival upon the scene of commercial activity, has shown himself possessed of good business capacity, and will no doubt continue to carry on the business into which he has entered with the same success as that of Cowan, Shaw & Co., with which he has severed connection. The firm it will be seen, will maintain their house in a position in keeping with the ever increasing volume of business in the Province.

Mr. Pitts, who retires with a competence will shortly leave for England.
